

The analysis of discrimination that I have presented in from hiring highly productive women or minorities (as we saw in the example of professional sports).⁸

The argument that individual self-interest will undermine any large