

Upon completion of this degree from KSU, students will be able to:

1. Identify and apply key theories and methods of Gender and Women's Studies, including how gender intersects with identities and sexualities in different historical, cultural, and geographic contexts.
2. Demonstrate information literacy, critical thinking, and self-reflection skills.
3. Evaluate written, oral, and/or visual texts within relevant cultural and historical contexts.
4. Analyze major social issues using theories and perspectives from Gender and Women's Studies.
5. Integrate academic curriculum with community engagement.